Many families worry that Augmentative and Alternative Communication (AAC) will prevent or limit speech or that it's only appropriate for individuals with severe disabilities. Research tells a very different story.

Join DSAF and Amy Marquez, MS, CCC-SLP, for this engaging and practical workshop as we break down the most common myths about AAC and explore the evidence-based facts. You'll learn how AAC can support speech and language development and empower individuals with Down syndrome and other developmental disabilities to communicate more effectively in everyday life.

If you're beginning to explore AAC, this workshop will provide clear information, reassurance, and practical strategies to help you move forward with confidence.

Time will be provided after the presentation for Q&A. This workshop is open to both families and professionals.

DSAF workshops are funded through a grant from Office of Persons with Developmental Disabilities (OPWDD). In order for us to maintain this funding, and continue supporting families, we need to clearly show that we are serving families who currently have TABS numbers and have Family Support Services (FSS). Thus, if you applied for and received a TAB number through OPWDD, we will be asking you for that information when you attend our grant sponsored events.
